

METHODIST CONSTITUTION.

TO BE REVISED BY A COMMISSION IN THE NEXT FOUR YEARS.

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE ALSO ADOPTS A SCHEME OF MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE AFTER A DETERMINED FIGHT BY GENERAL RULING AND OTHERS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]
Cleveland, May 27.—The Constitution, which the General Conference has had under discussion for several days, and which gave rise to an animated debate last night, was referred to-day to a commission of fifteen to be appointed by the bishops and to consist of six ministers, six laymen and three bishops. The commission is to review the work of the commission of 1888 and the recommendations of the present conference, to receive all recommendations of the Commission on Lay Representation, together with all memorials signed by five ministers or five laymen, and to set forth the present organic law of the Church, with such changes as it may make, and print the result in the Church press by January 1, 1899. Between January 1, 1900, and the meeting of the next General Conference in May of that year, it is to revise its work in the light of circumstances and suggestions made and report to the General Conference of 1900.

The special Committee on Arbitration submitted a report on the troubles in Armenia, in part as follows:
Whereas, An exceedingly great and bitter cry has gone up from Armenia, devastated, pillaged and trampled under the iron heel of armed persecutors, in which hundreds of our fellow-Christians have been murdered in cold blood, or, surviving, suffered nameless outrages; be it

Resolved, That the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, assembled in Cleveland, May 1896, do hereby petition Congress to pass a joint resolution at the earliest possible date, authorizing the President of the United States to enter into negotiations with the European Powers most directly interested, with the view to the end that such Powers or Governments be requested, in the name of humanity and civilization, to take such action as will forever put a stop to these atrocious and shameful outrages. Received, further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to both houses of Congress immediately upon their adoption, and that such action be signed by the president and secretary of this body.

The report was unanimously adopted.
Under the call for reports from committees several were presented and adopted, including one from the Committee on Church Extension, which recommended warm and extended debate. The report, which was presented by Dr. Swindell, chairman, proposed that the plan of what is known as the Wisconsin Methodist Church Mutual Insurance Company be adapted to the whole Church. The report provided for the appointment of a board, consisting of one member elected by the delegates from each of the fourteen general conference districts, and five to be appointed by the Board of Bishops. The board thus constituted is to appoint a manager. Policies are to be written on church property at the rate charged by regular insurance companies, and premiums are to be paid as follows: One-third in cash when the policy is written, one-third by a note payable in one year, less the pro rata share of profits, and one-third by a note for two years, less profits.

Dr. Swindell said that the rates of insurance were so high in some sections as to be practically prohibitory. The plan proposed was intended to give the churches adequate protection at much less cost, by allowing them to share in the profits. Dr. Sweet, a presiding elder, said that in his district, the Lake Superior, in Wisconsin, the insurance rates were 1 1/2 per cent, while under the mutual plan insurance cost only one-half of 1 per cent. If the regular companies charged high rates it was because the risks were great. Insurance was not a dream or speculation, but a systematized business, and the rates were made as low as possible. The whole country was strewn with wrecks of mutual insurance companies. The Methodist Church should issue a warning by the Ashbury Life Insurance Company, which went down some years ago and left a great scandal. The Church might just as well go into the dry goods or grocery business as into insurance business. The law of many of the States, was visionary and imperfect, and would wind up with a scandal.

A considerable minority, including a number of laymen, made determined efforts to defeat the plan, but they were all overruled, and the report adopted by about a two-thirds vote. At the afternoon session the death of a member of the Conference, Dr. Julian F. Scott, of North Carolina, was announced. A committee was appointed to represent the Conference at the funeral service to-morrow morning.

A plan for a board of examiners for each annual conference and of examination of candidates was announced by the bishops.
Secretary Leonard made an appeal for larger contributions for the Missionary Society, especially to meet the debt of $25,000, and the Conference adopted it and ordered that the board be organized. The Judicial Committee reported many changes in the discipline concerning the trial of ministers and members.

LOCAL BUSINESS COMPLICATIONS.
PAYMENTS SAID TO HAVE BEEN OBTAINED ON FICTITIOUS SALES.
Deputy Sheriff Lipsey has received an attachment from Leventritt & Nathan for $8,641 against Eugene B. Smith and William H. Batcher, who used the style of the Redfern Manufacturing Company, wholesale dealers in cotton goods, at No. 47 Leonard-st., in favor of William McElhinney for cash advanced to them, and a keeper in pawn-pledge store, charged of their office. Eugene B. Smith is said to be the proprietor of the business and Mr. Batcher, the manager. About November 1 last William McElhinney, an old and well-known merchant, became the financial backer of the business, and he has since cashed the sales made by Smith and Batcher. According to the affidavits prepared by Leventritt & Nathan, the agreement between Messrs. McElhinney, Smith and Batcher was that Batcher and Smith would sell goods to various merchants throughout the United States, would receive such sales to Mr. McElhinney; that he would advance to them the amount of such sales less 4 1/2 per cent commission, the goods to be shipped to the buyers in the name of Mr. McElhinney, and he would bill in his name; that he would be the owner of the claims for the goods sold and delivered, and would alone be entitled to collect the amount of the sales. Between November 1 and May 21, it is alleged, they represented to him that they had sold to various merchants throughout the country goods to the amount of $30,318, presented to him bills for such sales, caused the goods to be shipped to the buyers for shipment, gave seeming instructions that the goods should be shipped to the supposed buyers, and caused the goods to be shipped to the buyers. Mr. McElhinney asserts that the sales were wholly fictitious, and that the goods were never shipped to the supposed buyers, but were removed and disposed of for the use of the defendants.

The schedules of Boyle, Conover & Ednie, wholesale dealers in millinery goods at No. 161 Broadway, way, show liabilities of $20,000; nominal assets, $5,000; actual assets, $1,000.
The schedules of Albert Murdoch, cloak manufacturer at No. 147 Waverley Place, show liabilities, $2,285; nominal assets, $7,490; actual assets, $2,285.

ENDS HIS LIFE IN THE TOMBS.

HAVING FAILED TO KILL OTHER MEN, EDWARD BERG KILLS HIMSELF.

Edward Berg, the drunken sailor who shot one of his comrades at No. 12 Greenwich-st., and also tried to shoot the policeman who arrested him on Tuesday, committed suicide in cell No. 54, in the Tombs, late the same night. He made a noose of a cheap necktie, which he had been allowed to keep when he was locked up, and hanged himself to a gaspipe in the cell, bending his knees and holding up his feet to allow the weight of his body to tighten the noose around his neck.

Berg was a native of Finland, and was a deckhand on the cattle steamer Bovic. He acted like a crazy man on Tuesday, when he went to leave the boarding-house in Greenwich-st., to go to other deckhands back to the steamer. He drew a revolver and began to shoot at his comrades without any known cause. One bullet went through the body of Frank Dunne, a colored man, inflicting a dangerous wound. After Dunne fell, Berg continued to shoot, but shot nobody. Two of the shots were fired at Policeman Grey, who later overpowered him.

After Berg was taken to the Centre Street Court and committed to the Tombs he continued to rave like a madman, but his jailers thought he was crazy from the effects of the wound he had received. The prisoner was last seen alive in his cell shortly before 10 p. m., and the next time a keeper looked into the cell he saw the man's dead body hanging there. The body was cut down, and efforts were made to resuscitate it without avail. The man had slowly choked himself to death. The body was removed to the Morgue yesterday morning, and it probably will be buried in Potter's Field, as it is not known that the man had any friends in this country who would be willing to pay for other burial. At the hospital in Hudson-st. yesterday it was said that Dunne, the man Berg shot, might recover.

PLANS FOR MODEL TENEMENTS.
TWENTY-EIGHT OF THEM, DRAWN ACCORDING TO THE IDEAS OF THE IMPROVED HOUSING COUNCIL, ARE ON EXHIBITION.

The twenty-eight plans submitted in competition to the Improved Housing Council were on exhibition at the Origies Gallery, No. 236 Fifth-ave., yesterday, and will remain there until Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The plans were all drawn in keeping with the conditions laid down by the Council, and while architects pronounce the collection as a whole a fine exhibition and one which will bear good fruits, there seems to be no doubt that the three sets of plans which were selected by the committee are the best and the most practical. The successful architects are James E. Ware, Ernest Flagg and A. W. Ross.

When the competition was opened the committee said that it was in a position to offer prizes to competitors, but that the architect whose plans should be accepted would be appointed architect by the committee, "providing in its judgment it is warranted in so doing." It is believed that the work of the Housing Council will soon take practical form, and that a building will be erected by a corporation of which the Council will be the nucleus, and that Mr. Ware will be the architect.

The plan of the exhibition was drawn with a view to overcoming the defects of the present apartment-houses. Among these defects are lack of light, bad ventilation, and the fact that the houses are too small to be divided into separate apartments. The plan of the exhibition is to show a building with all the requirements of the New York Building Code, and the plans for the building shown occupy an entire city block of 50 feet by 60 feet.

Among the conditions which were laid down by the committee were the following: No walls or light shafts shall be used. All rooms must be lighted by windows opening directly upon the outer air. All apartments must have cross ventilation. Each apartment must have its own independent fireplace staircase inclosed by brick walls, with a separate entrance to the street. Each suite must have a separate water closet, opening directly into the outer air. It must be possible to enter directly into the living room from the street. The plan of the exhibition is to show a building with all the requirements of the New York Building Code, and the plans for the building shown occupy an entire city block of 50 feet by 60 feet.

PRIVATE SETTLEMENTS CAUSE A GENERAL UNLOADING—THE LOCAL MARKET AFFECTED.
The decline of 10 American points in the Liverpool cotton market on Tuesday was a surprise to the speculators on this side of the ocean. A further sensational drop in early months abroad, equal to the drop of yesterday, would have been a disaster. There was also a dip of 3-16 in spot cotton in Liverpool, with sales of 10,000 bales. The effect of this demoralizing break in Europe was to open the local market down 7 to 9 points for summer months, and 3 to 7 for the next crop. August opened at 7 1/4. Shorts covered eagerly on this decline, however, and Mr. Inman, it was said, added to his position yesterday. The market was held by the shorts, and it was said that the break in Liverpool, which began on Tuesday, originated in the private settlement by two firms of a large short account in May-June contracts. The local market recovered all its opening loss before 3 o'clock, August selling up to 7.33, or two points over Tuesday. It closed at 7.77.

Crop news both good and bad came from the South. The existence of drouth over large areas of the cotton belt, particularly in Texas, Florida and Georgia, checks a disposition to sell the late months short.

NOTES ON DRESS.

THE USE OF RIBBONS—SOME NEW FRENCH GOWNS.

Ribbons are more used than ever as a garniture for summer costumes, and it is interesting to note in what an immense variety of ways they may be employed. A "harness" of ribbon is one of the most popular arrangements, and as this is separate from the dress and may be worn with a variety of toilette, it is a useful adjunct to a summer wardrobe. It takes just ten yards to make one of the most elaborate, for it should be always borne in mind that no economy of material must ever be apparent in a "good-looking" costume. The least makeshift or stinting in quantity quite destroys the effect of a gown, however well thought out it may be in color.

embroidered black silk. This is made over a pale green faille, the same silk forming the skirt, which is perfectly plain. The sleeves are gathered in at the inside seam from the wrist to the shoulder, the fulness being again gathered into the outside seam, until just above the elbow, from which point it is draped to the shoulder. The waist is trimmed only with revers of a delicate white openwork embroidery, spangled with tiny lozenges of pink, blue, green and yellow crystal. The belt and collar are made of Pekin ribbon containing the same motifs.

A pretty suggestion for a striped shirt waist is to pleat the front like a chemise to the depth of four inches, bringing the colored stripes together. This gives quite the effect of another material. On either side of this from the shoulders comes a wide pleat converging to the waist. The belt and the collar are both formed of the same pleated arrangement of stripes, so that this style of waist requires no other trimming than itself, and yet it has a very "chic" effect. The latest striped shirt waists are made with horizontally striped sleeves and vertically striped bodice. So and so is wearing her last summer's shirt. "How do you know?" asked her companion. "Oh, she always gets her shirts from —," and this year all his sleeves are cut across the goods!"

Another simple and effective way of making a striped shirt waist is to have the top shirred around to the depth of a round yoke; attached to this over the sleeves are deep draped epaulettes trimmed with insertion or braid, and joined to the yoke front and back by ribbon rosettes with ends. The sleeves have a puff to the elbow, and a ribbon collar and belt complete the costume.

A very pretty black and white striped silk from Ducrest has the skirt made in graduated box pleats. The bodice is cut with a square yoke, the fulness being gathered on to a band of insertion. The waistband is buttoned on to that of the skirt, and has no belt, the buttons consisting of two in front, and two at the back being left to show. Revers of green velvet extend from the shoulders to either side of the front buttons on the waistband, just above which they are cut off in points. The sleeves are wrinkled and tight to the shoulder, flaring out into butterfly drapery at the top. Sleeves continue to show that ascending tendency, as the accompanying sketches of Paris costumes testify.
